Christmas gift.

Twin daughters were born to the wife of Marion Thompson, who lives on the Stanford road.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Christian Church, will meet with Mrs. J. C. Robinson, next Saturday afternoon, at the usual hour.

Death.

George Allen, an infant of Allen Hiatt, of Lexington, died last Saturday, and the remains were brought here on Sunday and buried in the Lancaster cemetery. The child was a great grandson of Mrs. Rebecca West, this city.

Card Of Thanks.

We heartily extend our thanks to our friends and neighbors for their timely assistance and consoling words, during the last illness of our husband and father.

Mrs. John Hurt and Family.

New Firm.

H. T. Logan rented, to Misses Scotta Petty and Irene Roman, his brick store-room, North side Public square, which he will have remodeled and refitted. The ladies will use it for a Millinery Store, and, as they have many friends, they will enjoy a full share of public patronage.

Land Sale.

Hughes and Swinebroad sold, for $4,000, the Goodloe farm, on the Richmond pike, to Benjamin Ham for $14,000. It consists of 168 acres is well improved and the location is very desirable.

They have a splendid farm on the Lexington pike, with two houses, a tobacco barn and all necessary buildings, that can be bought at a bargain.

Announcement.

Dr. E. H. Pearce will deliver an address at the Methodist church in this city, on next Sunday night, at the gathering of the Council of American churches, in Philadelphia, which he attended as a delegate. All congregations in Lancaster, are cordially invited to unite in the services.

A Mighty Gathering.

Thirty three Christian denominations of America, gathered at Philadelphia by their official representatives to one body of four hundred and fifty delegates, representing 18 million of membership, gathered too, not to disparage but fellowship each other, joining in song, following song, prayer, following prayer, until people and people looked at each other through wet eye lashes, to say, "Has Pentecost Come Once More?" This is the first Triennial of the Federal Churches of Christ in America; first organized Nov. 1905 in New York City.

Probably no addresses from platform since the foundation of American Republics have represented power of speech to kindle and fire the hearts of men, as in the recent national gathering.

E. H. Pearce.

Circuit Court.

Everybody is working faithfully in this court, and several cases have been disposed of some of which follow:

Annie Brown, administratrix, against same, verdict for defendant; Mike Ohara against same, verdict for defendant; J. F. Holtzclaw against J. S. Pettus, verdict for defendant; Herbert Perkins against L. & N. Railroad verdict for defendant; Commonwealth against George Gaines, charged with obtaining money and goods by false pretense; two cases, verdict for one year, in each case, in the Penitentiary; same against Susie Grant, charge receiving stolen goods, 30 days in jail; same against Harriet Shanks, colored, horse breaking, two years in penitentiary.

As we go to press, Henry Shirley, colored, is on trial for murder, at Dawsonville. Hardin, Robinson and Tomlinson for the prosecution and Williams, Hamilton and Walker for the defense. At this writing the Grand jury has not adjourned, but several indictments have been returned, some of which have been tried in the foregoing cases.

From Richmond Climax.

With the advent of the New Year, The Climax announces to its readers, friends and patrons that plans are now on foot which will make it a bigger and better paper than ever before. Business has increased to such an extent that we find it necessary to employ the services of an expert newspaper man and it is with pride pried we make known the fact that Mr. Louis Landram will come the first of January to associate himself with our already competent force. Mr. Landram is a born newspaper man and until recently, when he sold his plant, he was owner and editor of the Central Record, of Lancaster. He is not only a news gatherer and polished writer, but a practical printer. He will assume editorial and reportorial duties on this paper, and we feel that we are indeed fortunate to secure the services of so competent and experienced a man. He has friends of friends in this city who will welcome him to our midst. The Climax is adding new machinery all the time and changes are constantly being made, all of which tend to the betterment of the Climax facilities for newspaper and job work. Mr. Landram will remain at the Ellis Flat on N. Second street and with his charming wife will move to Richmond during the next few weeks.

Christmas Shopping is at hand, and we hope that every body will be made happy.

Bob Walter, the devil of this office set a galley of type Tuesday, and is a hustler if he is in love.

Improving.

Mr. J. Mort Rothwell, who was accidentally wounded, near Crab Orchard, was brought home Sunday and is resting quietly.

Mrs. A. Haselden, who gave us a local last week, for the rental of property, in Bryantville, phoned us Monday to drop it, as a party saw the paper and rented property. Advertising pays.

Strayed.

Strayed from my place on Thursday Dec. 3, a black side, brown back, dehorned cow. Reward for information leading to her recovery.

W. M. Dyehouse, Judson, Ky.

Notice.

All those having claims against the estate of J. H. Potts, bankrupt, are hereby notified to file them with me or my attorney, J. E. Robinson, properly proved. R. L. Elkin, Assignee.

A Gem From The Late Senator Carmack.

"I speak, sir, for my native state, for my native South. It is a land that has no sorrows; a land that has broken the ashen crust and moistened it with her tears; a land scarred and riven by the plowshare of war and billeted with graves of her dead; but a land of legend, island of song, a land of hallowed and heroic memories. To that land every drop of my blood, every fiber of my being, every pulsation of my heart is consecrated forever. I was born of her womb; I was nurtured at her breast, and when my last hour shall come I pray God that I may be pillow'd upon her bosom and rocked to sleep within her tender and encircling arm."

Death of Col. T. P. Hill.

The following is part of an excellent article, in the Interior Journal, on the death of Col. Hill.

He was the same charmer in the social circle. He had no superior as a conversationalist. His fund of reminiscences, enlivened with brilliancy and humor, made him the chief spokesman of every gathering, great or small. He enjoyed the society of the young as well as the old and retained his buoyancy to the last. He was the personification of kindness, and the best index of his character is that those who knew him best were drawn to him with hooks of steel. During the whole of his active practice there were students in his office, many coming from a distance, preferring his instruction to that of the best law schools. These students today are scattered all over the country, many of them having attained eminent success in life, and it can be safely said that there is not one of the number who does not bear the affection of a dutiful son to an indulgent father.

Progress in Rural Free Delivery.

According to the annual report just issued by Mr. P. V. McGraw, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General in charge of the free rural delivery, the monotony of life in 3,000,000 farmers' homes is broken daily by the passing of the rural carrier. Thirty-nine thousand one hundred and forty-three drivers whose salary averages $867 leave daily in the iron boxes in front of the farmers' homes their mail.

The establishment of new routes during the past year has made possible the discontinuing of 1,958 country post offices. According to the report the introduction of the rural system has stimulated an interest in country road improvement, as there has been expended in this direction, since the establishment of rural routes, the sum of $70,000,000.

If Congress takes favorable action upon the recommendations of this report, the farmers will enjoy a special postal rate for packages weighing not over eleven pounds, the special rate to be in effect only between the distributing office and the patrons on any route from that office. Since the establishment of the first rural route there has been a demand for a special rate on packages and for a time the carriers were allowed to handle packages and make their own charges, but this has not proven satisfactory.

There is now a general demand for this service not only on the part of the farmers themselves, but on the part of merchants located at distributing points. Mr. McGraw states in his report that there would be no additional expense to the Post Office Department in the operation of this special rate, while on the other hand it would greatly increase postal receipts. He thinks that if a neat uniform is of value to the carrier in the city it would also increase the influence and dignity of the rural carrier. He asks for an appropriation for the rural route for next year of $26,246,000.

In Maryland the other day a woman protested against the establishment of a rural route in her section because it would disturb the quiet and seclusion of country life. The rural route system is now serving about eighteen millions of Americans who live in the country and it is quite likely that the only protest made is made by the National Government in the last half century has done more to improve conditions in the country districts and to bring the farmer in touch with modern life than the extension of the free rural delivery.

Exchanges.

The Ladies of the C. W. B. M. will have exchanges at the Post office on Danville street the following dates: Wednesday, Nov. 25, Saturday, December 12. The sale of good things will begin early on the dates mentioned. The ladies will cater to the needs of the house wives and will gladly take orders to be filled.

A Card.

The exchange given by the ladies of the Baptist Church, on last Saturday afternoon, over Mr. Joseph's store, was quite a success. Everything sold at a good price. It is our aim to have for sale just those things which are always useful to every housekeeper, and we trust that we can have the same co-operation in the future, which we have had in the past. We now take this opportunity to thank the public for their kindness and consideration in our past work.

Christmas.

Sending gifts to gladden the hearts of friends and relatives is highly commendable, but certain things should be observed in selecting them. We give the following from Everybody's Magazine:

A gift is supposed to represent your wealth of affection, not your bank balance.

You will give more pleasure with a thoughtful gift than with an expensive one.

Getting a big show for the money may do for some wedding, but never for any Christmas.

If the panic or any other upset has made it impossible for you to give as usual, write letters instead. Your friends will like you all the better, assure.

Don't leave letters and cards till the last moment. Write them at your convenience and hold them till the proper time.

Mail everything to reach your friends before Christmas, and mark the packages "Open Christmas." Late guests and late Christmas packages are of a class.

One of Campbellsville's Most Lovable Ladies, Died at Her Home Here Last Night.

At 7:30 o'clock last night, Wednesday, December 2, 1908, Mrs. Mary Lois Williams died at her home in this city after an illness of about two months. She was a victim of Bright's disease and gradually grew worse until about noon yesterday when she suffered a stroke of paralysis which effected her entire left side, resulting in death a few hours later.

Deceased was the widow of the late DeRoy Williams, who died in this city about four years ago. She was the daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Irvine and was born in Adair county on March 4, 1851. In early childhood she removed with her parents to Lebanon where she resided a number of years, and it was there on Nov. 19, 1869 she was married to Mr. Williams. To this union was born three children, all of whom survived as follows: Mr. W. I. Williams, of Lancaster, and Mrs. Sam Scott and Mrs. James G. Pruitt of this city. About thirty-five years ago they removed to this city where they have since resided. Mrs. Williams was a devoted member of the Christian church and it was due to her individual effort that the present church edifice of that denomination in this city was erected. She started a subscription paper with a donation of $75 and with that began the solicitation of funds and succeeded in raising $600 before the other members of the congregation realized they would be able to build a church. She possessed a fine intellect and many beautiful traits of character which won for her the love and admiration and friendship of all with whom she came in contact.

The funeral services will be conducted by her pastor, Rev. Wm. Stanley, at the residence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, after which the interment will be in Brookside cemetery.—Taylor County Inquirer.

Backward Season and Need of Ready Cash Force us to This Sacrifice

Everybody knows how late Fall and Winter have been, and that even now real cold weather is scarcely upon us. This, of course, has greatly retarded sales in the Clothing and Furnishing Goods business. However, you must bear in mind that this is also the time of the year when wide-awake merchants must be well sold out in order to pay their bills in the cities and arrange for his Spring and Summer goods. Thus you see how imperative it is that we meet the conditions, and the only way to do this is by selling the stock now on hand at cost, and even less than cost to be prepared to handle our next season's goods. We have been forced to have sales like this several times before, and we leave it to our patrons as to the truthfulness of our statement that we have always fulfilled every promise made in our advertisements. We must have Money. The goods must go, regardless of what they cost us, so come to our store on December 4th, and you can be fitted from head to foot with the very best Merchandise money and experience could secure, and that too at just what the manufacturer charged us for it.

the memory of many far beyond the confines of his native country. Being a master of language, his eloquence will roll on for generations, for it was of a type that years cannot impair or time destroy.

The President's message to Congress is replete with his policies, and his ear-marks are so distinct that the author would have been known without the signature. He shows the nation's financial condition to be excellent, and that the currency system is imperfect: seeks more publicity in corporations; admits folly of Sherman anti-trust law; urges that salaries of all judges be doubled, and recommends laws for better educational facilities, and the conservation of public health. He says that the National Government alone should deal with corporations, and in that, and other things, manifests his usual tendency toward centralization.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

To the Democratic party of the 13th Judicial District: I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge of this district. I prefer a primary election.

M. C. SAUFLEY.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Chas. A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, as a candidate for re-nomination for the office of Commonwealth Attorney for the 13th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

In the Twenty sixth Judicial District, M. J. Moss was an easy winner, in the Republican primary, in the contest for the nomination for Circuit Judge. He is a brother of W. B. Moss, this city.

The popular vote over Bryan, this year, was 1,100,000, while Roosevelt defeated Parker, in 1904, over two millions and five hundred thousand. This is a democratic gain of 1,400,000 votes. The people will finally get right.

The last session of the Sixtieth Congress, convened Monday, with becoming dignity. Look out for appropriations, especially for taking the census next year, which will be enormous. We are hopeful that tariff reduction will be favorably considered.

The President puts the New York Sun and the Indianapolis News in the Ananias Club, and one of those papers answers, in terms not at all complimentary. It seems to be very bad taste for the President to enter into personal controversies, no difference who is right.

The Eighth District Publisher's League, of which The Record is a member, adopted the rates at the head of this column. Reference is made to this because the rates were charged in a bill for a political call, running six times, and it was not thoroughly understood.

Gov. J. C. S. Blackburn, of the Capital Zone, who is sojourning in Washington a few days before his return to Kentucky, announced to his friends that he is ready to resign his position should President-elect Taft so desire.

Gov. Blackburn says that work on the canal in Panama is progressing along lines that are satisfactory.

Capt. Louis Landrum, who so ably edited The Record for fourteen years, and was President of the Kentucky Press Association, has accepted a position on the Richmond Climax, and will move to that city. He has a host of warm friends here and will make many in Richmond. We congratulate the Climax, and the citizens of that city, on securing his services, as he is familiar with every detail of journalism.

The Democrats of the House are planning to demand an investigation of the purchase of the Panama canal property, and in conformity with this programme Representative Rainey, of Illinois, yesterday introduced a resolution directing the Speaker to appoint a committee of five to "ascertain how much of the $40,000,000 which appears of record to have been paid to the French company, was really paid to that company."

In noting the death of Col. T. P. Hill, at Stanford, the writer who has known him for fifty years, often edified by his advice and moved by his eloquence, joins the whole country in expressing the deepest regret and sorrow. He was truly a great man. A thorough historian, an eminent lawyer, and a gifted orator, he will yet live in the memory of many far beyond the confines of his native county. Being a master of language, his eloquence will roll on for generations, for it was of a type that years cannot impair or time destroy.

The President's message to Congress is replete with his policies, and his ear-marks are so distinct that the author would have been known without the signature. He shows the nation's financial condition to be excellent, and that the currency system is imperfect: seeks more publicity in corporations; admits folly of Sherman anti-trust law; urges that salaries of all judges be doubled, and recommends laws for better educational facilities, and the conservation of public health. He says that the National Government alone should deal with corporations, and in that, and other things, manifests his usual tendency toward centralization.

The mid winter meeting of the Kentucky press Association will be held at the Seaboard Hotel, Louisville, on December 29. The following subjects will be discussed by the distinguished journalists whose names are given: "The Public Press and the Public Schools," H. A. Sommers; "A Message from the Mountains," Charles W. Metcalfe; "Good Roads," Desha Breckinridge; "The Pay," Miss Louise A. Babbage; "What the Public Expects of the Press," John D. Carroll, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals; "Some Things an Editor Ought to Do and Some Things He Ought Not to Do," E. A. Jonas; "The Home Paper and the Home Town," James Richardson; "Advertising as an Essential to Success," John C. Lewis, Louisville; "Relation of the Press to the Farmer," M. W. Neal. President Needham will preside. Program substitutes: Edward O. Leigh, Thomas C. Underwood.

Gov. Wilson commuted the sentence of Robert Hocker, the negro who was to have been hanged at Lexington.

In stating his reasons for commuting the sentence of Hocker to life term in the penitentiary, Gov. Wilson said, in a long opinion, that he did not think that Hocker had premeditatedly committed the crime and that the story of the killing was probably not told in its entirety to the jury. The commutation of Hocker created some excitement at Lexington, although there was little of the mob spirit expressed.

The Governor seems to like hair-splitting and hypothetical propositions.

We might assume that the whole story is never told, and thereby grant clemency. The truth is the pardoning power is a dangerous thing, in the hands of any one man. It should be vested in a commission, consisting of men who are independent politically, and who will give bond never to accept any office.

At the sale of Percheron and Shire mares held at Williamsburg, Ill., last week, forty-five head were sold for $18,900, an average of $420.

James Clark bought 100 acres of unimproved land, three miles from town, on the Sugar Creek pike, of Hudson and Kavanaugh, at $60 per acre. The land is very fertile.

At the recent sale of Durocs of S. R. Murphy, Savannah, Mo., seventy-three head averaged over $40 and fifty head brought an average of $51.51. Savannah Belle brought the top price, $525, while the nine of her litter catalogued brought $600.

At a recent sale of Shorthorns held by S. P. Emmons, Mexico, Mo., thirty-nine head brought $4,500, averaging $116. The highest priced bull, Lavender's Diamond, brought $525 and Fernwood Sybil sold at $300 the top price of the females.—Farmer's Home Journal.

In this great wheat belt it is often the practice to burn straw; in other sections straw is largely wasted. Straw has both a considerable feeding and a fertilizing value. In order to determine its fertilizing value experiments have been made by the Maryland Experiment Station. Fresh wheat straw was broadcasted at a rate of two tons per acre in the early fall and plowed down the following spring, and the following results were obtained.

The untreated land produced 34 bushels of corn per acre and 16 bushels of wheat. The straw land produced 58 and 19 bushels, respectively, and the same land manured produced 86 bushels of corn and 22 bushels of wheat. The results show that while straw is not as valuable a fertilizer as manure, it will produce a considerable increase in yield, and should be used fresh where available rather than allowed to go to waste.—Indiana Farmer.

The farmer with dairy cows who has a supply of clover or alfalfa, has a sure thing in the dairy part of his industry, if he will use the feed right and take good care of his cows this winter. A daily ration of ten pounds of alfalfa and the same amount of clover hay and about 30 pounds of silage, along with such grain feed as cob-and-corn meal he can make with his own farm mill, about ten pounds daily in three feeds per day.

The offering of new Burley aggregated 310 hogheads. The quality was good, although there was a marked scarcity of color or bright grades, and the condition was fair. Low grades drew the most active competitions and going prices were the highest in years, nothing, no matter how common, was knocked down for less than $14 per 100 pounds. Medium and good red leaf met with a very strong demand, and while such grades sold at high prices, they were not proportionately as high as the low grades, the margin between the high and the low grades being remarkably small. The average brought by the 310 hogheads was $16.10. This compares with an average of $11.76 on 62 hogheads in the corresponding week of last year and 94 hogheads at an average of $7.31 in 1906, showing present prices to be more than double those of 1906.—Courier Journal.
